

Cooling Center Sites

A cooling center is a site that provides an air-conditioned environment to prevent adverse effects from the heat. Food is not provided. Vulnerable persons, older adults, persons with physical disabilities, persons with mental illness and young children are at greatest risk for heat-related illness and death. It is essential to prevent illness among the county's at-risk populations. With heat indices of 105+, heat stroke, sunstroke, muscle cramps and/or heat exhaustion are likely; deaths have also been associated. It is essential to keep well hydrated and cool.
