WHEREAS, the promotion of healthy communities is directly related to the health of individuals and encourages expanding public health support networks to decrease racial disparities in health outcomes; and

WHEREAS, race is a social construction with no biologic basis; and

WHEREAS, racism is a social system with multiple dimensions, including individual racism, which is internalized or interpersonal and systemic racism, which is institutional or structural and is a system of structuring opportunity and assigning value based on the social interpretation of how one looks; and

WHEREAS, systemic racism unfairly disadvantages some individuals and communities, unfairly advantages other individuals and communities, and depletes the strength of the whole society through the waste of human resources; and

WHEREAS, racism causes persistent racial discrimination in housing, education, employment, transportation, and criminal justice and an emerging body of research demonstrates that racism is a social determinant of health; and

WHEREAS, numerous studies have linked racism to negative health outcomes; and

WHEREAS, the Wisconsin Department of Health Services determined that African Americans and Native Americans have the highest excess death rates at every stage in the life course, and the infant mortality rate of Non-Hispanic Black infants is the highest in the nation; and

WHEREAS, the 2018 infant mortality rate in Kenosha County among Black mothers was 9.9 deaths per 1,000 live births, compared to their white counterparts, a rate of 3.5 deaths per 1,000 births; and

WHEREAS, Black mothers in Kenosha County are 2.5 times more likely to receive inadequate prenatal care than their white counterparts; and

WHEREAS, due to decades of policies like redlining and biased lending, white people are 3.7 times more likely to own a house than their Black counterparts and 1.5 times more likely than the Latinx population; and

WHEREAS, Kenosha County's Black population is half as likely to have a postsecondary degree, a third as likely to test proficient in grade 3-8 subjects on standardized testing, anywhere from 3 to 27 times less likely to meet the ACT college readiness benchmarks, and graduate high school about 15% percentage points lower than their white counterparts; and

WHEREAS, Black people in Kenosha County are half as likely to gain employment than their white counterparts, and get paid half as much; and

WHEREAS, while there is no epidemiologic definition of "crisis," the health impact of racism clearly rises to the oft-cited definition proposed by Galea (2017)*: "The problem must affect large numbers of people, it must threaten health over the long-term, and it must require the adoption of largescale solutions"; and

WHEREAS, with support from community partners, it is Kenosha County's responsibility to address racism, including seeking solutions to reshape the discourse and actively engaging all citizens in racial justice work; now, therefore,
